The ANU FC Crest – when artistic talent fails

Many months ago, the S.C.U.M. asked for readers to submit designs for a new ANU FC crest. One entry was received (thanks, Dave). Unfortunately that entry was utter crap, so the S.C.U.M. hired a monkey to come up with a few alternatives. After many sleepless nights, the monkey came up with the following:

Notice the Barcelona-inspired shield and the Manchester Utd-inspired ball of the above designs. It links the Club to greatness. We at the S.C.U.M. have no idea what the book, light globe, hourglass and angular shape (boomerang?) mean. Neither does our monkey. Good job on the Latin, though.

Here, the monkey has opted for simplicity. The ball was kept, as was the angular shape. Dumb monkey.

The final design, before the monkey died from starvation and exhaustion. We don't know what that phallic shape is, but experts from Taronga Zoo think it is an attempt to represent a banana.

The monkey has spoken (figuratively). Now it is YOUR turn. You can CHOOSE the next ANU FC crest! We eagerly await your response.

CELEBRATE THIS SATURDAY

Come to the wonderful RSL this Saturday to celebrate and be merry. Support our CHAMPIONS at our favourite DRINKING HOLE. That's right: champions. Don't be frightened by the bright light flickering from the Disco Beats dance floor – it's just the glitter from our members' championship medals. Too brash? Too bold? We at the S.C.U.M. don't think so.
